Fund Manager's view

- The ongoing earnings season has been in line with market expectations; however, few bellwether companies in the IT segment did disappoint. Many banks and financial companies reported margin pressure due to lagged impact of repricing of the deposit book. Of the hits and misses, most beats were concentrated in Utilities, NBFC, Energy and Autos, while misses were Consumer Durables. Discretionary consumption volume growth across sectors remains low, pinning hopes on the festive season. B2B sectors/segments of companies reported strong volume growth due to higher government capex and lower commodity prices on annual basis, while volume growth in the exports segment took a hit.
- Valuations are rich but markets have been witnessing bouts of consolidation and this will likely continue in the near term. Investors should be mindful of the volatility seen in the mid and small caps. This segment has more representation of B2B companies having exposure to investment and exports part of economy. Underperformance of consumption compared to investments and exports has helped the rally in mid-small cap so far.
- Axis's approach to value investing will continue to look at companies with strong fundamentals at a reasonable valuation. Such companies will continue to grow as the economy enters into a growth phase.
